

Art

At Settlebeck, our Art curriculum is designed with a profound commitment to fostering creativity, critical thinking, and a deep appreciation for artistic expression. We believe that Art is a powerful vehicle for personal and social development, enabling students to explore, communicate, and understand the world around them. Our curriculum is structured to provide a comprehensive and enriching artistic education that cultivates both technical proficiency and imaginative exploration.

The intent of our Art curriculum enables all students to be:

- skilled artists
- competent in different artistic mediums
- creative and innovative
- critical thinkers
- culturally aware
- aware of sustainable practices

Beyond the confines of the classroom, extracurricular art provides a platform for students to explore their creativity freely and pursue personal artistic interests. These activities, whether it's participating in art clubs, workshops, or exhibitions, foster a sense of community and camaraderie among students, creating an environment where diverse perspectives and techniques are shared. Importantly, extracurricular art encourages students to take ownership of their artistic journey, enabling them to delve into specialized areas or experiment with unconventional mediums that might not be covered in the regular curriculum.

Through a curriculum rich in creative skills, we aim to prepare students not only as proficient artists but as innovative thinkers and problem-solvers who can leverage their creativity across a spectrum of disciplines and pursuits. Our goal is to nurture a generation of artists who not only create beautiful and compelling works but who also influence and shape the world around them through their boundless imagination and ingenuity.
